!!! NEW BOOK CLUB !!!

Challenging Contemporary Culture through Literature

Do you enjoy reading for leisure?
Do you enjoy discussing literature with fellow students?
Are you looking for interesting new novels that have some socio-political or cultural relevance?
Do you think that narrative fiction can function as a lens through which to investigate current circumstances and processes of society?

If your answer to these questions is 'yes,' then the CCCL Book Club is exactly what you've been looking for!

The CCCL Book Club is an initiative that was born out of the seminar "Introduction to Cultural Studies," offered by Dr. Carolin Gebauer during the winter term 2020/21. We are a small group of students who, with their lecturer, are planning to get together on a regular basis throughout the upcoming semester to read and share thoughts on newly published Anglophone novels. We are particularly interested in narrative fictions that deal with social, cultural, economic, ecological, or political issues and thus inspire us to relate critically to the contemporary world.

The first session of the summer term will take place on April 20, 2021, 6 pm (s.t.) via Zoom. In this meeting, we will set up our reading list and schedule all further meetings for the summer term 2021.

If you would like to join the CCCL Book Club, please send a message to: gebauer@uni-wuppertal.de
You will receive further information after registration.
